2009 SOA Symposium: Government and Industry Best Practices April 2-3, 2009

FDIC L. William Seidman Center
3501 Fairfax Drive
Arlington, Virginia

The First SOA Event of its Kind

Day 1 is focused on the technology of SOA featuring keynotes from world-renowned experts in the field.

Day 2 is devoted solely to people, policy and governance and includes The Speed of Trust seminar led by best-selling author Stephen M. R. Covey.

You are invited to join this event at a special rate of $250 which includes both days and the The Speed of Trust seminar. (Registration fee does not apply to employees of the DoD or Federal Government).

For more information and a link to register, please visit www.soasymposium.com.

About this Event: The SOA Symposium brings together SOA experts and practitioners to cover the most important topics pertaining to the wide-spread adoption of SOA in both government and industry sectors. This event is sponsored out of the US Department of Defense (DoD). The DoD has embarked on a path to implementation of SOA as a primary means to deliver increased capability by improving the efficiency and effectiveness of business operations.

Headlined by SOA thought leaders Dennis Wisnosky (Chief Technology Officer of the BMA, US Department of Defense) and Thomas Erl (Author and Founder of SOASchool.com), more than 30 speakers will come together to share the latest insights, practices, patterns, and technology innovations as they pertain to all lifecycle phases of SOA projects.
